“ I only knew you for a short time... but, what I did know was that your caring heart was as big as the sun. I have no words to express how your friends and family are hurting right now, no words to make it better... but, what I do have is my deepest condolences to all that are missing you. When they wake up over the next few weeks and ask themselves, “why”.. I pray that they will know that Heaven needed a warrior and you certainly were that... you never gave up!! They’ll carry on, because that’s what you would want and that’s what you would do... they’ll hold onto each other and one day a memory will bring a smile instead of a tear and it will be the beginning of healing. Your presence on this earth will go forward and your lessons will be passed down and you’ll peak in on them from time to time.... Until then, your with The Father and there you will stay until you all meet again. Raise a Hallelujah...and fly high, angel 🙏🙏🕊️🕊️
