“ I will miss hearing her laughter!!! RIP Maw-Maw. It was time for you to go home to be with your other angels. I will never forget all the happy times we shared.

Renee Vandiver - May 16, 2019 at 05:06 PM

I'm so sorry Renee. I know what your maw-maw meant to you, Jay, Ray and Tracy. May she rest with the angels now.

“ Pam and Ralph, our deepest condolences. While we never got to meet your mother/mother-in-law, we know from your complete devotion to her and her care she was the love of your lives. Pam, there’s no doubt you share in your mother’s beauty. Your mother’s strength, compassion and love of family shines through in you. While this time is so difficult, remember anyone we have ever loved is never gone, they live in our heart and memories forever. Take strength and peace in knowing she’s at peace. The love she shared and taught all of you, will be a reminder that she is always with you! May God Give you strength during this difficulty time. Wishing you love and peace. Take care. Maria and Mark.
